

About the Author

Darlene Quinn

Darlene Quinn is an award-winning author and journalist from Long Beach, California. Her series of novels, Webs of Power, Webs of Fate and Twisted Webs and Unpredictable Webs have garnered International critical acclaim and have given her an avid fan base around the world. The fifth novel in her Webs Series, Conflicting Webs, released in 2015, is the winner of the Beverly Hills Award for General Fiction and the Readers Favorite Silver Medal Award for Fiction. Darlene is now working on Severed Webs.

Quinn finished Buddy Ebsen's incomplete manuscript for a Barnaby Jones novel she titled Sizzling Cold Case, which was released in January 2007. In addition, she has published articles in both "Inskeeping World" and "Savvy Magazine", highlighting the business knowledge she gained during her time at Bullocks Wilshire Department Stores.

As part of a seven-member management team for the Bullocks Wilshire Department stores, Quinn has the insider's perspective on the rise and fall of major department stores.

Quinn became interested in storytelling at an early age but did not begin writing until her adult life. Prior to being an author, Quinn was a teacher, a self-improvement and modeling instructor, and a private contractor for various department stores and hospitals.

She has two children, John and Jodie, and lives with her artistic husband, Jack, in Long Beach, California.
